PROFESSOR TALKS AT "Y" GATHERING

Prof. Frank, Chicago, Delivers Interesting Address to Local Children.

Children entering the grade schools enter into a moulding period of life that not only goes far in deciding their education but their character as well, according to Prof. Frank, of the McCormick Theological seminary of Chicago, who made an especially noteworthy address at the South Bend and Mishawaka School of Religious Education, in the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Mr. Frank said that the child responds more readily to its environment than to any other one thing in its early life. He said:

Child Responsive. "The child is keenly responsive to the social approval or disapproval of the group which he feels to be his own. During the first six years it is the family group whose attitudes are fraught with most significance for him. It is apt to be the only group whose life he knows intimately and continuously.

"No one can over-estimate the influence of family attitudes, interests and ideals upon the character of this emerging personality. His subsequent life takes much of its emotional tone and moral quality from these highly formative years and their associations.

"But in the next six years the school and play groups acquire prestige and the child seeks their approval for his conduct. Herein may arise a conflict. For the play group, the gang, or the clique may approve types of conduct which the home disapproves. The group with the greatest prestige for the child will in all probability win out and control his conduct.

"Boy Scout and Camp Fire Girls movements are efforts to make the social approval of early adolescent groups wholesome and stimulating."

In spite of the rain the attendance approached the 400 mark last night.

Mathers Anticipates Forty-Nine Bottles, But Not on the Wall

Forty-nine bottles, not hanging on a wall, but wrapped in newspapers and concealed in cupboards, and a thousand jugs, all reeking of the odor of moonshine, is the nightmare that prohibition officer Harry Mathers anticipates some night.

The nightmare will be to him but the recurrence of the incidents of a raid made Friday on the home of Frank Miller, 525 Cherry st., at which about six gallon jugs filled with moonshine and a pint of Old Taylor was seized.

No still was found on the place, though a very thorough search was made for one in the face of the condition the raiding party found at Miller's home. Jugs were everywhere. Every jug revealed the odor of liquor.

There were jugs in the cellar, jugs in closets, jugs in beds, jugs in every place that would offer concealment, and still more jugs where no place of concealment could be found.

A thousand was the number Mathers said there seemed to be, but only six of them were found to contain liquor and these were all full, and they were the ones that were most carefully concealed. The liquor was confiscated and brought to the county jail, and a charge of unlawful possession was lodged against Miller.

PRISONER IS FREED, BUT NOT FROM PRISON

Charles T. Lyons is now a prisoner in the county jail. When he became one of the county's boarders he was a married man, when he is released from the jail, or whatever place of confinement he may hereafter be committed to, he will be a free man, free not only in the eyes of the law, but also free from the bonds of marriage.

A decree of divorce against him in favor of his wife, Florence L. Lyons, was entered in superior court No. 10 at Jackson, Mich., Friday afternoon, and the plaintiff was granted permission to resume her maiden name, Florence Krone-witter.

The complaint on which the divorce was granted alleged that the defendant failed to supply her with the necessities of life, and forced her to go to work in a factory, that he became intoxicated, and was lazy and unwilling to work and provide her with home.

Lyons is in the county jail at the present time by reason of being bound over to the grand jury on the charge of burglarizing Piers' store in Mishawaka several weeks ago.

HOLD UP MAN GETS LONG PRISON TERM

Joseph Metcalf, Colored, Sentenced From 5 to 14 Years by Judge Klein.

Five to 14 years at the Indiana State reformatory, a fine of $1 and costs and disfranchisement for 10 years was the punishment meted out to Joseph Metcalf, 25, a colored colored holdup man, when he was brought before Judge Fred C. Kline in superior court No. 2 for sentence Friday afternoon.

Metcalf was found guilty of the charge of robbery by a jury in superior court No. 2 Thursday after a three days' trial. Metcalf has already spent 11 months in the county jail awaiting to be brought to trial. He was committed to the state reformatory rather than to the penitentiary at Michigan City on account of the fact that the statute provides for a sentence to the reformatory where the convicted person is under 30 years of age.

The crime of which Metcalf was found guilty was holding up Frank Mahalski, a milk wagon driver, and at the point of a revolver taking from him the sum of $45. The crime occurred last Christmas morning shortly after midnight.

JAPAN MILITARY LEADERS AMAZED BY SUDDEN BLOW

Great Britain Aids Hughes Proposal by Hint to Japanese.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 11.—The British admiralty has halted construction work on four new super-dreadnaughts, it was officially announced today.

The admiralty was known to have prepared plans for four new "super-jutland" warships, superior in size and armament to the famous Hood, at present the most powerful craft in the British navy.

All ship building concerns at work on naval business were advised by the admiralty to "incure no further liabilities on new construction until further instructions are issued by the admiralty."

TO COMPEL SUCCESS. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Great Britain's startling action in suspending construction work on her four post-Jutland super-dreadnaughts is notice that the British government has decided to compel success of the disarmament conference by cooperation if necessary with America against any recalcitrant group.

This sudden initiative for peace by the world's greatest naval power comes at a most opportune moment in the Washington negotiations. A halt has occurred below the surface in the Washington deliberations because of the hard attitude of the Japanese government. There is a historic struggle now proceeding between the elder statesmen and their reactionary following in Tokyo and the liberal Japanese element to dominate the Nippon policies at Washington.

The most significant facts in Japanese circles since the conference began are Ambassador Shidehara's sudden "illness" and the refusal of Admiral Kato to receive a petition from Japanese correspondents in Washington urging acceptance of the American naval program.

Shidehara is the leader of the Japanese liberals at the conference. He is now engaged in a battle with the elder statesmen. His "indisposition" is undoubtedly no worse than a diplomatic excuse he has made to Tokyo for not presenting certain objections to the American policy.

The Japanese journalists at Washington represent public opinion at home. Like Shidehara they are liberals. They side with the ambassador, but Admiral Kato, who is the embodiment of the Japanese spirit of conservative discipline, will not list to public opinion as interpreted by the newspaper correspondents.

Now, however, that Great Britain has given such unmistakable evidence of her intention to cooperate with America, the Japanese liberals may well wonder what Japan fears to do. The answer would be that it is an Anglo-American entente were formed in the Pacific. The quickest way to force such an agreement on the English speaking democracies would be for Japan's reactionaries to try to wreck the Washington conference.

Roberts' Detail Strikes Snag in Securing "Mule"

Officers Use Force in Conducting Raid on Paul Sinko's Establishment.

For the second time this week Paul Sinko, proprietor of a soft drink establishment at 305 Chapin st., was arrested, charged with unlawful possession of liquor for sale, when Sergt. Roberts, in charge of a detail composed of Sergt. Leather and Officers Delinski and Hamilton, descended upon the place last night.

The police were compelled to fight their way into the place, as Steve Sinko, a brother of the proprietor, saw the men approaching and bolted the door. Paul threw himself against the door, holding the lock as the officers proceeded to break in the glass, enabling the wife of the owner of the place to empty the liquor in a sink.

Hamilton Cuts Hand. Officers Hamilton, while thrusting his hand through the broken window, in order to open the door, received slight lacerations of the wrist. The police were compelled to force open the door to gain admittance and were then to obtain a milk bottle which had contained moonshine and was filled with water while the officers were trying to make an entrance. A small whisky glass, half full of moonshine, was also confiscated to be used as evidence.

Steve Sinko was arrested and charged with resisting an officer, and was held under $300 bonds. Paul, the owner of the place, charged with unlawful possession of liquor for sale, was held under bonds of $500. Both men will be given a hearing in the city court this morning.

SCHOOL BOY STEALS CREPE FROM DOOR

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS-TIMES. NILES, Mich., Nov. 11.—Was it a boy's love of mischief, or an act of perversity, nature that Thursday evening induced a 14-year-old Niles school boy to steal the crepe, insignia of mourning, from the front door of the Clarence Eckert home, 561 Day st., within which lay the body of a four-weeks-old baby girl?

According to the lad's statement to the police, he was accompanied at the time of the misdemeanor by a number of other boys and girls, and agreed to take the crepe from the door on a wager. Immediately after his arrest he was taken to a cell in the city jail, from which he was released a much crushed and humiliated repentant boy.

The crepe, according to the boy, is now the possession of a girl accomplice, who desired the ribbon as a trophy.

Lillian Van Der Bloom was granted a divorce by Judge Kline in superior court No. 2 Friday from her husband, Christiaan Van Der Bloom. The couple were married on April 15, 1916, and separated on April 16, 1918. Abscondment was the grounds for the decree.

Anna Prokai was granted a divorce in superior court No. 2 Friday from Stephen Prokai, and granted permission to resume her maiden name, Anna Yargo. One month of married life was enough for the plaintiff, the couple having been married on July 21, 1921. During this month, however, the complaint against the defendant treated her cruelly, choked her, called her vile names, refused to support her, and was unacceptably filthy in his personal habits.
